FOREWORD

Resumés of the school year of Winston-Salem's three high schools, North, South, and R. J. Reynolds, are included for the first time in this, the twenty-fifth volume of the Black and Gold.

The staff has tried to present the Unity of the City Schools and at the same time to give expression to each school's individuality, in continuation of the purpose of the City—to grow and yet to keep its spirit of civic cooperation.

HISTORY OF JANUARY CLASS, 1936

Ina Grubbs, Historian

This, the graduating class of nineteen hundred and thirty-six, is for the most part made up of native born citizens of Winston-Salem except for three and these are natives of North Carolina.

In 1925 some very frightened and some very eager children entered the different schools of the city to be led along the path of learning. Some had the good fortune to be together through all of their school lives, while others, through some fortunate or unfortunate chance, entered the class at a later date.

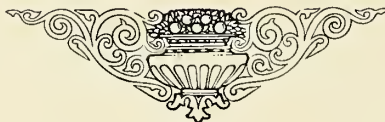

In 1930 we were promoted to North Junior High School and had the ill luck to be the lowest grade in the school. We therefore determined to make the school proud of us before we left it. It seems that we had succeeded. We had as members of our class, Bobby Young, ex-mayor, Doris Turner, judge of the court, Bernice Rykard, court stenographer, and Sylvester Johnson, ex-chief of police. We had in addition to this, three members of the newspaper staff, James Snipes, assistant business manager, Bernice Rykard, business staff, and Nola Tuttle, reporter.

Just as we were about to resign ourselves to having to leave North to go to high school we were duly informed that we were in North High School! Imagine our surprise! We immediately put upon ourselves the robes of dignity.

On reaching the position of seniors, we decided we needed a good leader. Bernice Rykard was elected to this position and the class agrees that she has been a good president.

Being the first class to graduate from North High we naturally feel rather important. We sincerely hope that we will do nothing to cast reflection on us or our school in the years to come.

PROPECY OF JANUARY CLASS

Florence Russell, Prophet

The date is January, 1946, and the scene is Winston-Salem on a circus day. Bobby (please excuse us, Mr. Robert) Young, the newly elected mayor of the city is poking his official nose into tent flaps and stands to be sure that the circus folk are violating none of the regulations of his fair city. A hearty slap on the back almost sends his cigar down his throat and he turns to face a yellow and red apparition—"Chip Johnson, himself, the chief clown of the show and an old friend of the mayor's."

"Well, well, I've been looking for you", the clown began, "I have a message from Mademoiselle Turner in Paris."

The mayor pricked up his ears at the mention of "mademoiselle" and Paris. Who wouldn't?

"She knew that we would tour this country and asked me to look up her old friends in the class of '36."

"Yes, but she was just plain Doris then," began the mayor, "and what is she now?"

"An opera star and a good one. And do you remember Ina Grubbs? I saw her in New York. She is acting as secretary to the president of the Chase National Bank. Not bad."

"I should say not! But who else have you seen in your wanderings?"

"Now let me see. There was a young couple by the name of Snipes. He called her Bernice, so that must have been her name at North High—Bernice Rykard. They were enjoying a quiet home life, as far as I could see."

"I wonder," thought the Mayor, with a reminiscent look in his eyes.

"And say", went on the clown, "I saw a swell opening in New York, the "Gold Diggers of 1946." Maybe some of them are your old friends. Nola Tuttle is beginning her stage career as leading lady."

"Sure. I remember Nola. Let's see, that leaves only a few more. Have you ever heard of a chap by name of A. V. Barringer?"

"The one with a mustache? Oh, yes, he's the president of the A. and P. Stores of the U. S. And he told me that your friends Misses Krites, Vanhoy, and Russell are learning more about the gentle art of house-keeping as they are on the list of brides-to-be."

"Well, that accounts for all of them, I guess. Say wait"—

But the clown was disappearing toward the center of the ring as the band struck up the tune for his entrance, and the mayor was left to chew thoughtfully on his cigar and think over old days at North High.

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT OF JANUARY CLASS

By Sylvester Johnson, Testator

We, the pioneer graduating class of January 1936, being full of nothing but our ambitions, do hereby leave all our worldly possessions to our less fortunate classmates, faculty members and principal in this, our last will and testament.

Article I, Section I;

To the faculty of North High School, we bequeath the privilege of running the school, as we are tired of doing so.

Section II;

We bequeath to Miss Dungan, the pleasure of teaching the "onward rushing" sixth graders, as they are getting grey-headed in their years of successful failure.

Section III;

To Mr. Floyd Gooch, (better known as Coach), we leave the honor of coaching a flirting football team. (They just flirt at their opponents in a game.)

Section IV;

We bequeath to Mrs. Bankston, the honor of keeping the jailbirds from sleeping their time off.

Section V;

To Miss Woodmore, we bequeath our appreciation of her valiant attempt at teaching a snappy, failing, Junior Business Class.

Section VI;

To Mr. R. S. Haltiwanger, principal of our fair school, we bequeath our excellent grades in history, as he may need them for reference in the future.

Article II, Section I;

To the dignified Juniors we bequeath our front-row seats in the auditorium, and hope that they won't snore as loudly as we did.

Section II;

Bernice Rykard bequeaths her flirting ability to Kate Reece, as she may need it in the future.

Section III;

To George Shore, Bobby Young leaves his knowledge of history, as he may need it in his many unsuccessful graduations to come.

Section IV;

Miss Doris Turner bequeaths her title of "Miss," to the younger generation, as she has no use for it in the future.

We hereby appoint as administrator of our estate, Mr. R. S. Haltiwanger, whose efficiency, wisdom, and seriousness, is undoubtedly and unquestionably exercised to the greatest extent.

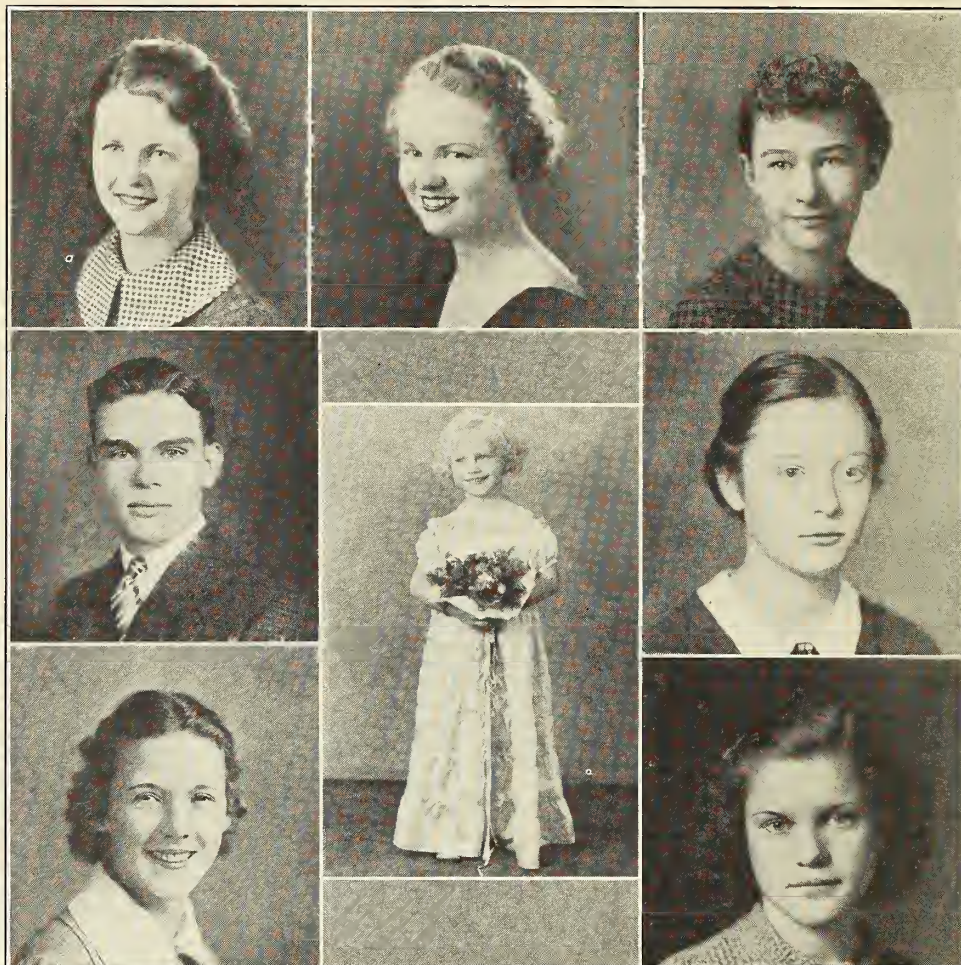

In witness whereof, we do hereunto set our seal, this 31st day of January, 1936.

SENIOR GIFTS

Mary Ellen Johnston, Giftorian

To every senior who starts on his way
A parting gift we make today.
To Allen goes this little gun
So he can Hunt from sun to sun.
We give Kate Reece a megaphone
To aid her natural speaking tone.
Jane Bennett rates a blue-eyed doll
And Nina Jackson a basketball.
Surely Mamie and Cleo will like to look
Between the pages of this history book.
And nothing could please old Wade as well
As hearing the sound of this dinnerbell.
To keep Kathleen Moore from being late
We think an alarm clock appropriate.
A comb and mirror we give Nell Barrett
With Evelyn Cooke we'll let her share it.
Lib Barbee would like a nice little car
And Charles Vannoy a movie star.
A Cook stove and a Cook book, too
For Mary Lib Coe will have to do.
Some Colgates will aid Edna Hudspeth's smile
And a ball will amuse Wm. Kates a-while.
As a bride, Myrtle Rykard has use for a ring
And Lena Branson a piano so she can sing.
Wilma Archer can increase her vocabulary
By swallowing this whole dictionary.
And Albert McKinney gets a box of candy
When 'round the girls, he will find it handy.
Ruth Hinshaw deserves a make-up kit
Since the "Patchwork Quilt" she made a hit.
Two pencils for Mary Hanes and Lucille Long
As typists they will never do anything wrong.
These marbles will give E. F. Freeman some fun
'This parasol protect Pansy from the sun.
And last but not least, we give Bobby Burns
A big lollipop, as the session "adjourns".

NORTH HIGH JUNE CLASS HISTORY

Wilma Archer, Historian

Most of the graduates of the North High Class of '36 began their school career at Fairview School or at Old North Elementary School, and a majority of us have come through our years of schooling together. Of course, the group that remains is the "cream of the crop", as you might say, of the hundred or so that probably began about the same time. All the faulty material has been weeded out, and there remain less than forty who have continued their schooling in spite of seventh grade tests, disease epidemics, and such. Most of us have had such well-loved teachers as Miss Annie Maud Pollard, Miss Revelle, Miss Tyler, and Miss Dungan.

We began our career at North Junior High under the leadership of Mr. Caldwell and finished under Mr. Haltiwanger. Throughout the years at junior and senior high, we have actively supported the city government organization and held important positions on various teams, editorial staffs, and clubs.

Among our distinctions we may claim Wade Poindexter, the only blind tackle in captivity; two great actresses, Myrtle Rykard and Jane Bennett; Kate Reece, debater; and Wilma Archer, newspaper editor. Collectively speaking, the class is unrivaled in beauty, brains, and athletic ability.

We all, more or less successfully, survived the catastrophic effects of the depression, M. O. S., and American History.

The main events of our senior year were the Junior-Senior reception, the stage presentation of "Macbeth" and participation on North High's first football team.

Now, after at least eleven years of tribulation, we are at last ready to receive our diplomas as North High's first June graduates, leaving the fame of our accomplishments and our deep love for our Alma Mater as a heritage to those who are to follow us.

1911 25TH ANNIVERSARY EDITION 1936

PROPHECY OF JUNE CLASS, 1936

Allen Hunt, Prophet

The mammoth plane circled low over the California hills and came to a perfect three-point landing in the Rose Bowl which had been formed into an airport when the Graham plan went into effect over the country ten years before and made stadiums a superfluity. Two long legs emerged from the cabin followed by the familiar specs of Wade Poindexter who had just come West to take over an executive position with M. G. M. studios and play the part of Leo, the M. G. M. lion, since the Marx brothers have confined themselves strictly to grand opera.

The pilot raised his goggles and started forward:

"Well, Wade Poindexter! I didn't know you were the fat, white haired executive I was hauling around."

"And you are Robert Burns, my old North High pal. Well, the world's a small place after all!" And Wade put another stick of Wrigley's in his mouth. He had been carrying it around with him for ten years, hoping that Miss Mint would stop him and hand out a dollar.

"Say," quoth the pilot, "meeting you here makes me think of the good old days at North High. A lot of our friends have become famous since then."

"Did you know E. F. Freemond and Myrtle Rykard are out here in California? E. F. is a cartoonist who is giving Walt Disney something to think about, while Myrtle is a stage and screen star who emotes at present in a well known musical comedy, 'Strike Me Pale Pink.'

"Charles Vannoy is working overtime lately since so many people have accepted Mae West's invitation, to 'come up and see her sometime.' Charles is her elevator boy."

"I heard that Kate Reece is running for governor of N. C. in favor of the Townsend old age pension plan."

"Mary Elizabeth Coe is happily married and is now living in W. S. She cooks daily for six little Cookes.

"William Kates and Mary Ellen Johnston are now coaching basketball and developing two Fast Fairview Fives."

"Elizabeth Barbee, Nell Barrett, and Edna Hudspeth have started a girls school. They are teaching girls how to be beautiful since they know all about it. Their associates are Pansy Freeman, Evelyn Cooke, and Cleo Warner. Hundreds of beautiful girls are turned out yearly by these experienced instructors for the stage and screen."

"Wilma Archer and Nina Jackson are writing blood-curdling murder mystery novels for the master detective magazines."

"Jane Bennett has signed a contract to double for Shirley Temple."

"Kathleen Moore, who got her start singing during Mr. Swaringen's absence from home room one morning, knocked Major Bowes off his feet with her vocalizing and gave him the gong."

"I was flying to California from N. Y.," the pilot continued, "and I had to make a forced landing in Kansas. I dropped in on a white bearded hermit. He was no less than Albert McKinney, our ole pal. He explained his action saying he had been disappointed in love."

Wade interrupted there, "I hear Hollywood is a lively town. Let's ankle over to the Cocoanut Grove." Here they found that the hit of the show was the famous dance team, Mary Hanes, the electric-fan dancer, and Lena Bianson, the soap-bubble dancer.

While they were engrossed in this spectacle, Robert punched Wade with "Do you see what I see?" and no less person than Allen Hunt, the master of ceremonies, in frock-tail coat and white tie, came into view and began crooning into the microphone. He kept looking in the direction of two girls in trim uniforms sitting nearby whom Wade recognized

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT OF JUNE CLASS

We, the Members of the June, 1936 graduating class of North High, being comparatively sound in body and unsound in mind, do hereby will and bequeath the following items as our last will and testament.

Article I, Section I;

To Mr. Swaringen, our esteemed homeroom teacher, we leave the incoming seniors in the hope that he will find them less trying than we have been.

Section II;

To our Alma Mater, we leave our heartfelt gratitude for all it has done for us and our wishes for a successful future.

Section III;

To our teachers and principal, we leave our appreciation of the efforts made in our behalf and the assurance that they may have classes in the future just as appreciative as we, but not as brilliant.

Article II, Section I;

To Miss Dungan, Wilma Archer leaves her red hair.

Section II;

To J. D. Allgood, Albert McKinney

leaves his title of biggest flirt.

Section III;

To Lola Belle Shelton, Mary Ellen Johnston wills her ability in Athletics.

Section IV;

To Opal Lancaster, Evelyn Cooke leaves her popularity in the hope that she will cherish and protect it.

Section V;

To Dorothy Darnell, Mary E. Coe wills her beauty and the office.

Article III, Section I;

We do finally set aside one-third of our estate, amounting to approximately three cents, to erect a monument in our memory on the school grounds, as we desire to be classed as those "gone but not forgotten."

Made under our hand and seal, this the 26th day of March in the year of our Lord 1936 in the city of Winston-Salem, N. C., in the county of Forsyth.

SOUTH HIGH JANUARY CLASS POEM

Ruth Minish, Class Poet

Leaders!

Guiding stars to those who walk the self-same road,
Your footsteps faltering not, when so near your goal,
Aspiring to bright futures—the past a happy load,
Standing proud to greet your fate as did the knights of old.

Leaders!

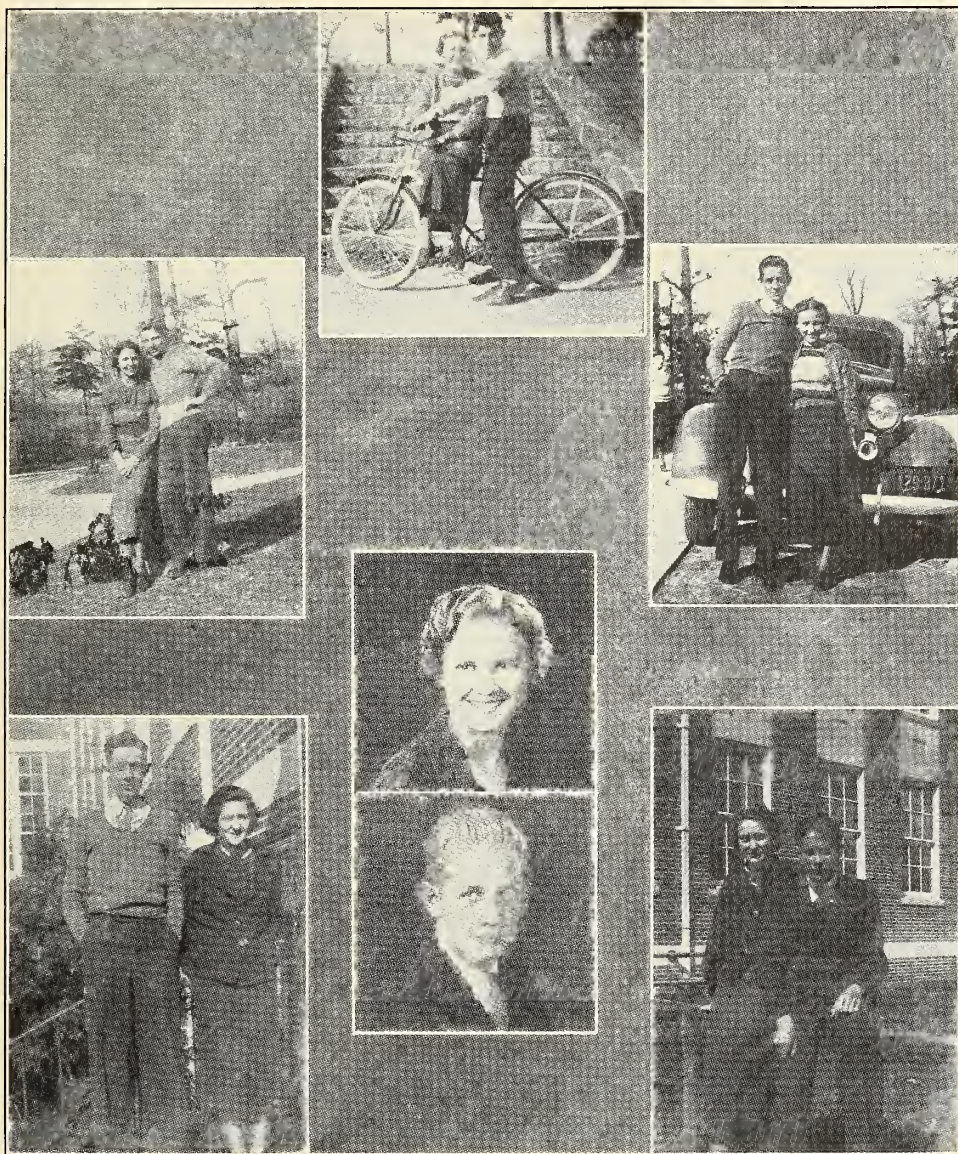

Acting as a beacon to those who need a hand,
Standing straight when joys are far and few,
Sending sustaining courage to those on unfirm land,
Giving of yourself in friendships glad and true.

Leaders!

May your ideals be kept intact, both of heart and mind.
May new histories brightest annals of your exploits tell,
Bringing joy and honor to the school you leave behind,
Living a useful life—one you may treasure well.

HISTORY OF JANUARY CLASS, 1936

Marguerite Fort, Historian

Scene: Mrs. Jackson's comfortable living-room, fifteen years after graduation.

Jane, Mrs. Jackson's daughter, is about to leave to visit a girl friend who is graduating from high school.

Mrs. Jackson: When you return from your call, be sure to come in the side doors, because I'm having company. Tonight my senior class in high school is having a reunion here. It really doesn't seem that it has been fifteen years since we graduated.

Jane: Mother, I've never heard you say anything about your class before. Please tell me about it.

Mrs. Jackson: All right. First our class was mixed with the seventh, eighth, and ninth grades in home rooms until we became a senior class. We were quite the kings of our little universe (so we thought), and our early history reads like a society column. We always made a party out of everything, even our lessons. I distinctly remember the first party we had in the spring of 1934. We had an outing at the Power House. That will always seem an unhappy memory, because Odell Newell, one of the best friends South High ever knew, was killed while walking from our school to his home after the party.

Later we had another party. Miss Mary Martin, a new teacher at our school, was then our sponsor. She had been tried by our standards of good sportmanship (similar to the trial given to all new teachers by their pupils.) Looking back over those days now, I realize she must have been a good sport to be so nice to such a fun-loving, mischievous junior class as we were.

Jane: Mother didn't you do anything but have parties all that time?

Mrs. Jackson: Why, yes. We were very business-like when anything of importance arose. While we were Juniors, we organized our class and elected officers. We let one group of officers stay in two terms because they were so good—at planning parties. Harry Dorsett was our president and Ruth Minish our secretary. During the last half of our senior year Harry Dorsett became so important in sports that we found it necessary to elect a new president, Harry Sapp, and as his secretary, Lucy Stewart. Harry Sapp was quite a business man and he carried us through those last weeks with a brave show of his heels that were clicking from home room to the office with a surprising amount of speed.

We did many interesting things. Our class, being the first senior class, had a great deal to do with the government of the school. I remember we had two captains of teams, a secretary of the school, six superintendents of departments, and a president of the student body. Can you wonder at our strong influence in Student Government affairs?

Near the end of the term, when we were wondering if we would graduate, came a joyful moment. A member of our class, Clifton Snider, won not only a small fortune for himself, but also brought honor to our school and class. His stage coach was the best in the state, and the Fisher Body Craftsmanship Guild awarded him first prize.

The Junior-Senior Banquet was the crowning achievement in entertainment. We were hailed as pioneers and everything at the banquet was early American, except the good time, and it was 1936 in a big way.

Graduation itself was great fun—all except the practicing. Dr. Clyde Milner was our speaker and he made an inspirational talk that was a fitting climax to our four happy years, but I really think that balancing those dignified senior caps was the hardest thing we had ever had to do.

PROPHECY OF JANUARY CLASS, 1936

Myra Mae Davis, Prophet

Scene: Mrs. Jackson's home. A reunion of the senior high school class is being held. The former president, Harry Sapp, presides. As the roll is called each person stands and gives an account of himself since graduation.

First, Howard Bray, an aviator, has been doing a great deal of flying experimenting with aviation. His first flight around the world broke the record. He has for the past five months flown the rocket ship from New York to Paris.

Second, Ruth Minish, soon after graduation, began studying to become an actress. She was, after a few years, given minor parts in productions, but later her fame grew to international proportions through the help of Mr. DeWhitt, a noted producer.

Third, Harry Dorsett, an excellent vocalist, has accomplished his ambition—that of singing over the radio. Everyone who hears his program is enthusiastic and wishes his fifteen minutes were two hours.

Fourth, Willie Hutchins, although President of the Rosie Posie Candy Company, keeps his position lowered to that of chief taster.

Fifth, Frances Hartman, pianist for Metropolitan opera, is now a student of organ.

Sixth, Clifton Snider, winner of Fisher Body Coach contest, is now employed by the Chevrolet Company due to his dependability and skill revealed in early efforts.

Seventh, Ashley Stonestreet, street car conductor, deposits neighborhood children safely at school.

Eighth, Brother David Conrad, has given his soul to higher things and has become a noted evangelist.

Ninth, Lucy Stewart is the inspiration of his life and leads in his singing.

Tenth, Zelpha Lee Wishon, is a hotel hostess at Waldorf-Astoria Hotel, New York.

Eleventh, Harry Sapp, orchestra director at Waldorf-Astoria, helps her entertain.

Twelfth, Marguerite Fort, secretary for Mrs. DeQuincey Vanderbilt, travels all over the world with her employer.

Thirteenth, Vonnie Willard, the best looking boy in the senior class, is in the movies on a "heavenly" salary.

Fourteenth, Hazel Hartley is a mother of "two precious children", has a comfortable home, and a husband who works for Reynolds. She is still interested in dramatics but never expects to go on the stage.

Fifteenth, Kenneth Evans is a magician with Mr. C. C. Quack's Medicine Show. Life is just "swell-elegant" for him.

Sixteenth, Grover Bates is founder of Bates Beauty Bunting Cosmetics. He is still interested in experimenting with chemicals.

Seventeenth, Vivian Shaver is a dancing teacher. In her spare time she coaches a basketball team.

Eighteenth, Gwyn Brown, driver of a "cute little red fire truck", always puts out his fires.

Nineteenth, Myra Mae Davis has become a nurse who secured her training at Duke Hospital. After nursing for two years, she married a brain specialist.

Twentieth, Woodrow Dixon is an undertaker with the Dixon Brothers Funeral Home in Toledo, Ohio. He wants to give his classmates an example of his professional ability, but they protest loudly and troop off to the dining room.

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT OF JANUARY CLASS

We, the members of the class of January, 1936, do hereby record our last will and testament on our departure from our dear Alma Mater.

Article I

Item I. To the faculty, we express our sincere appreciation for their efforts and services rendered during our stay at South High.

Item II. To Miss Hall and Mr. Phillips, we extend our sincere thanks for the helpful instructions they have given us.

Item III. To the student body, we leave the dear school song in the hope that it will create much school spirit. We also leave our respective organization jobs to those who wish the honor to be bestowed upon them.

Article II

Item I. To the Juniors, we leave the Senior Privileges and our assembly seats (if they can find them.)

Item II. To the football team of next year, we leave the several abilities of Harry Dorsett, Woodrow Dixon, and David Conrad, and fifteen cheers for their success.

Item III. To the future class presidents, Harry Sapp leaves his ability to keep the class quiet during business meetings. He also leaves his ear-trumpet just in case they need it, since he has become deafened from the noise.

Item IV. To the debating team of next year, Howard Bray leaves his gift of arguing on any and every question and wishes them much success in going 'round and 'round. He hopes they won't get as dizzy as he did while doing so.

Article III

Item I. To Mildred Carroll, "Bobbie" Davis leaves her gift to gab, also her flirtatious walk.

Item II. To Jack Simmons, Marian Hege leaves her ability to type, in the hopes that some day Jack will make his speed.

Item III. To Doris Highsmith, Grover Bates leaves his Southern drawl, and hopes that Doris will put it into practice.

Item IV. To Nancy Fisher, Vivian Shaver leaves her strong body and her athletic tendencies.

Item V. To Rosa Speaks, Marguerite Fort leaves her good looks. (She tried to get Vonnie Willard to leave his with Clifton Dunnagan, but he wouldn't be coaxed into leaving it behind, even with Clifton, who needs it so badly.)

Item VI. To anybody who needs it, we leave Hazel Hartley's ability to act. (Apply early to avoid the rush.)

Item VII. To the future class secretary, Lucy Stewart leaves her very fine secretarial qualities.

Item VIII. To Jack Brown and Doris Bell, Gwyn Brown and Zelpha Lee Wishon do finally will their witticism.

Item IX. To Frances Perryman, Frances Hartman hands down her musical ability, but she hopes that Frances won't disturb the neighbors while playing the piano.

Item X. To Helen Lewis, Ruth Minish wishes to leave her vamping ways.

Item XI. Ashley Stonestreet wishes to leave a little of his height with Vernon Snyder, who is greatly in need of it.

Item XII. To Roy Cranford, Clifton Snider leaves his craftsmanship, ability, and talent.

Item XIII. Willie Hutchins leaves his winning smile and charming personality to Roy Bovender, in the hopes that Roy will take good care of them, as he has done.

We do hereby appoint as executive of of January in the year of our Lord, 1936, this will, Miss Margaret McLean, as a token of our appreciation for her efforts this year as our class sponsor.

Signed and sealed this nineteenth day of January in the year of our Lord, 1936.

Signed,

Witnesses: Harry Sapp

CLASS POEM OF JUNE CLASS

Roland Lakey, Poet

Alma Mater, we are proudly sure
That your faith and courage will endure.
We are proud we knew a school like you,
Glad we cheered and loved your Gold and Blue.

Proud, we helped to make your brilliant name,
Proud, we helped to give you joy and fame;
Proud, that you will ever, ever stand
Emblem of our youth, to God and man.

Alma Mater, we with you will never
These glad bonds of friendship severe.
We hope that we shall 'ere be bound,
Where learning, truth, and good are found.

And if the goal of Fame is crossed,
Your words of council won't be lost.
To you, South High, we will be true;
Our glory shall belong to you.

HISTORY OF JUNE CLASS, 1936

Bennett Noell, Historian

The story of our class beginning in the year 1932, when we were bewildered Freshmen, may be called "the record of our happy desire to be well learned." This desire gathered together a group of boys and girls who, through four years of association together, became a well-knit, understanding, and friendly group.

During the time of our freshman and sophomore years, we were combined with the sixth and seventh grades, as our school was then a junior high. Although electing no class officers, we were well represented in the student organization.

During our sophomore year we were fortunate in having four of our classmates elected to the four "big" offices of the organization. They were: president, Bennett Noell; vice president, Lessie Johnson; secretary, Marian Vaughn; and assistant secretary, Harold Southern.

Our class was organized during our junior year. Under the leadership of Hoyle Mann, president, Lessie Johnson, vice president, and Wilmoth Lemmons, secretary and treasurer, we were soon high in organization work. James Wall, Harold Southern, Lessie Johnson, and Marian Vaughn had outstanding school jobs that year.

Throughout our junior year our social life was not neglected. We had many parties and banquets which were enjoyed by all. During the spring of our junior year we had with our sponsor, Miss Eleanor Cain, many good times.

In the fall of 1935 we reached "the top", and were accorded the coveted senior privileges.

We placed the leadership of our class in the responsible hands of James Wall, president, Ralph Leonard, vice-president, Richard Cline, secretary, and Lessie Johnson, treasurer. We particularly enjoyed a Halloween party given by the social committee of the class at Sara Alspaugh's home.

During this period of our class, we again enjoyed the privilege of having a great number of our workers holding high positions in the organization. James Wall, Harold Southern, Ralph Leonard, Sara Alspaugh, Jessie Mae Wall, and Wilmoth Lemmons took prominent places again.

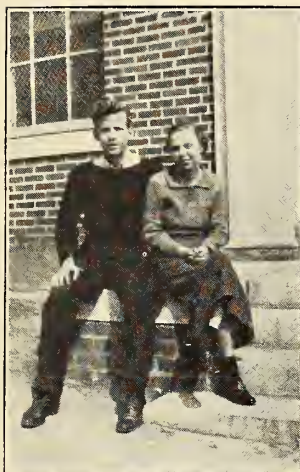

The school sponsored a pep song contest, and we won with the song "Are You from South High?" written by Roland Lakey. With this we cheered our first football team on to victory.

In the second semester of our senior year we reelected James Wall president of our class to serve with the following officers: Clyde Whicker, vice-president; Wilmoth Lemmons, secretary; and Fred York, treasurer.

We greatly enjoyed the Junior-Senior Reception. There was dancing and excellent food.

The time to leave our Alma Mater has come all too soon. We are separated now, but still united in one thought—"Back our hearts shall turn to praise thee, Dear South Senior High."

PROPHECY OF JUNE CLASS, 1936

Lessie Johnson, Prophet

Imagine a large book before you in which the Senior Class history since graduation is written. The volume is entitled, as you would expect, Lives of Famous People. Let us turn the pages swiftly, enjoying the illustrations and explanations under each.

Miss Alice Lee Peddycord and Mr. Aubrey Vaughn are revealed as stenographers employed by the Wonderway Piano Company, of Detroit, Michigan.

Dressed in his white surgical costume is Dr. Clyde Legrand Whicker, brain specialist. With him is his right-hand nurse, Jessie Mae Wall.

An orchestra is seen on the following page, having as director none other than Charles Spach. His talented young pianist is Miss Wilmoth Lemmons. The torch-singer, Sara Alsbaugh, poses in a glittering gown. Beside her is Howard Charles, her harmonizing companion, and Richard Cline, saxophone soloist, who can hold a blues note longer than any other instrumentalist in the world.

Miss Alice Moore has, I read, an excellent position as stenographer with the First National Bank in New Jersey.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Smith, socialites, are pictured at Saratoga enjoying the horse races. Mrs. Smith was formerly Estelle Comer. Mr. Smith, heir to a fortune, travels extensively with his wife.

A beautiful painting, belonging to the New York Art Museum, is reproduced on the next page. The artists name is familiar—Grace Mize.

A picture of the Wake Life Insurance

Company Building follows with Rodney Snyder, a representative, and Juanita Casper, his stenographer, standing on the steps.

Mr. Ralph Spry, who travels in the African jungles, poses next with a stuffed bear that he has killed. His wife, formerly Margaret Weaver, has won many bridge crowns in his absence.

The Jones boys, Nat and Bobby, are touring the world. Bobby, still the famous golfer, and Nat, a concert tenor, are pictured with their secretary, Miss Margaret Spaugh.

A large picture of the Cook University in Kernersville is confronting us as the page is turned. Professor Jim Cook is the head of the University. As a French teacher, here is Lessie Johnson. Marian Holder is a Home Economics director, with Frances Canada as her assistant.

Mr. G. N. Donahue of New York and his private secretary, Mrs. Henry Valvorton, (nee Geraldine Morris) are posed in the office of the Donahue Building.

I see Miss Ruby Akins, with her dignified and mature face, confronting the court room with convincing words. She is a lawyer with the Akins Sisters firm.

Harold Southern has reached his ambition—that of being governor of South Carolina. He, with the other government officials of that state, is shown on the steps of the capitol building in Columbia. In the center of the group is Fred York, internal revenue official, who lets us know with a broad smile that everything's all right with him.

As a member of Congress, Miss Pauline Libes is pictured with the Senate of the United States.

The queer-looking picture on this page was taken in China. The man and woman are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Zimmer-

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT OF JUNE CLASS

We, the first June graduating class, do hereby make our last will and testament:

Article I

Item I. To Mr. Phillips and the members of the faculty, we wish to express our appreciation for the patience, the co-operation, and the homework they have so willingly given.

Item II. To the Board of Directors, we leave the task of perfecting the honor system, which we have established by example.

Article II

Item I. To the incoming seniors, we grant the hoards of senior privileges, one of which is the ability of being the first in everything.

Item II. To the freshmen, we leave our self-control, hoping that it may be of use when studying "The Life of Samuel Johnson."

Article III

Item I. We bequeath to the future class president James Wall's outstanding voice, developed in trying to talk above the rest of the class.

Item II. To Nancy Fisher and Hoyle Mann, Juanita Casper's and Howard Charles' good looks with hope that improvements can be made.

Item III. To Hubert Weir, Charles "Bub" Spach's best girl, Margaret.

Item IV. To Lucile Wyatt and Everette Charles, Lessie Johnson's and Fred York's intellectual ability.

Item V. To Roy Bovender, Harold Southern's winning personality with the assurance that Roy will have many friends.

Item VI. To Helen Swaim, Marian Holder's gift of "constant gab."

Item VII. To Ed Mendenhall, Clyde Whicker's personal charm.

Item VIII. To Randall Manning, Bobby Jones' best neck-tie for basketball.

Item IX. To Annie Jarvis, Nat Jones' vocal ability.

Item X. To Ernest Shore, Jim Cook's charming smile.

Item XI. To Bill Schultz, Estelle Comer's dramatic ability.

Item XII. To Ruth Hege, Geraldine Morris' witty remarks.

Item XIII. To Edna Knouse, Sara Alspaugh's cute giggle.

Item XIV. To John Crouch, Roland Laker's talents (art and rhythm).

Item XV. To Rosa Speaks, Wilmoth Lemmon's height.

Item XVI. To Everette Parks, Aubrey Vaughn's typing ability.

Item XVII. To Norma Minish, Margaret Spaugh's ability to broadcast to the world without the use of a microphone.

Item XVIII. To Kathryn Foltz, Ralph Spry's ability to talk more than anyone else in the class.

Item XIX. To J. T. Hinshaw, Foy Dowell's crimson wave—no seasickness allowed!

Item XX. To Cecil Stewart, Rodney Snyder's ability to smile only with his eyes.

Item XXI. To Rose Wood, Margaret Weaver's snooty ways.

Item XXII. To Dorothy Nell Crater, just half of "Cotton" Stonestreet's attention to Grace Mize.

Item XXIII. To Virgil Allen, Howell Herring's algebra book, hoping it will be treated with utmost respect.

Item XXIV. To Mildred Floyd, Ruby Akins' mature facial expression.

Item XXV. To Elizabeth Massy, Frances Canada's intelligent chatter.

Item XXVI. To Dorothy Pope, Pauline Libes' ability to make campaign speeches.

Item XXVII. To L. C. Jenkins, Robert Zimmerman's pair of black eyes.

Item XXVIII. To the future shorthand students, Alice Lee Peddycord's best wishes for their success.

Item XXIX. To Doris Highsmith, Jessie

DEDICATION

Because we realize how deeply indebted we are to them for the necessities, conveniences, and luxuries of life and for parental, character building love; because we are truly grateful for their guidance during our youth; and because we love them, we, the January and June Graduating Classes of the Richard J. Reynolds High School, most thankfully dedicate this book of the Black and Gold to Our Mothers and Fathers.

JANUARY CLASS POEM

Norris Edwards, Class Poet

On coming, as we do, to that stage of our course,
Which divides the future from the past,
We needs must look within to find the source
Of those odd emotions which surge in our hearts,
Those sentiments conflicting—glad memory, regret and hope.

Among the chief shrines of our lives, memory is dearest,
Like unto a chalice from which may check deep of the past,
Live over each glad moment, hear each kind word,
See each hallowed scene, revive each dear love,
Recall each fond face, and each joy spoken or hard,
Yea, memory returns all the beauty of the things that are gone
And lightens the youth of those that are to come.

But lo! the chalice of introspect makes way for visions of the future,
Where are seen pictures of happiness and sadness,
Of good men's decision of ease and toil, of beauty and ugliness,
Of good and evil,
Pictures that bid us make songs of sighing and joy of grief.

For humanity calls us, and she calls us all, whatever our state or clan,
And we must respond to her pleading and well do our task in her plan,
Must say farewell to you, and turn our steps toward duty;
Advance with faith and courage the tasks of tomorrow.

HISTORY OF JANUARY CLASS

Helen Lineback, Historian

At last receiving a chance to store up the sweets of wisdom and knowledge, a hungry host of busy little bees found themselves swarming into various bee sections of the Richard J. Reynolds Hive in 1932. Yes, it was we—the class of 1936.

The world had gladly spread out before us. Everything was most astoundingly green and fresh—it was a beautiful spring day! We flew furiously and rapidly into every conceivable formation, finally blossoming fields of clover. Here the first hive of insects, better known as freshmen, had just left off, with the hope that if we were as good as they had been we too might someday be among the upper swarms of bees. Richard Goolsby, who was elected leader, piloted us safely from one unfamiliar task to another. We sipped the sweets of Latin verbs and civics outlines; we drank heavily from the flowers and growing things, exploited by our science teachers; we inbibed with a great deal of misgiving and wry faces the darker brew from our math teachers; we buzzed, hummed, and fluttered as all very young things do, unperturbed by the stings and slaps of the upper class bees.

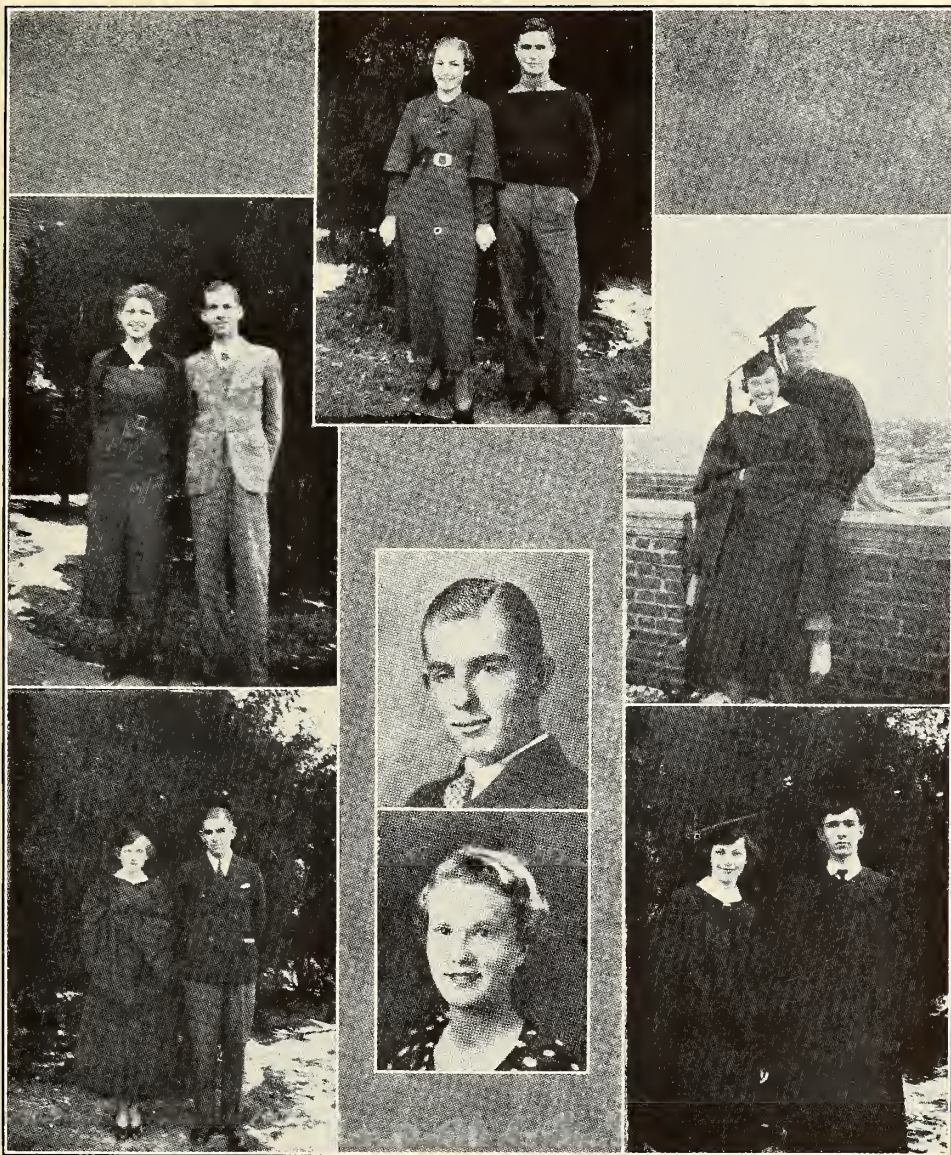

And so passed the spring of our existence, and the summer of a bee's life—the sophomore year began. Taking on a little more sophistication, we buzzed our way into a wider and richer area of the field. In spite of the arduous labors of the previous honey seekers, plenty of nectar seemed to be left for us to store away. More flowers were to be harvested. The bitter sweets of history, French, and geometry were to be stored. Truly, the honey was of a darker hue this time; too often our ambitious wings were drooping with fatigue, so great had been our exertion. More of us became drowsy from an over supper of sweetness, and we acknowledge with lowered heads that our workers were few. Our hive again was under the leadership of Richard Goolsby. In the latter part of our sophomore season, Mr. John Watson Moore was elected "Bee Master" of all the hives in the city, and we sang happily over the selection of Mr. Claude Joyner as the "Keeper" of the bees at the Reynolds Hive.

A warm, mellow sunshine flooded the land, and a brisk autumn breeze whipped around the 1936 beehive. The third period of the busy group was beginning with the autumn of a high school hive's existence—the junior year. Now, we no longer were annoyed by the angry clouds of upper class bees, stinging and swarming through the halls and various honey-combed sections of our hive. On the other hand, we could dart and sting our way through the libraries—over the campus—in the workrooms—in the office—everywhere. Weldon Darnell was chosen as leader. To our great delight we found that we were looked up to by the under class bees for leadership. We exerted our gauzy wings and attuned our throats for a deeper search for the most precious intellectual food and the nectar of life. The swarm of 1936 began to develop queen bees of its own and leaders in the manifold activities of their life. Increasing responsibilities of a more complex living often caused loud roars from the overworked swarms who now became frantic choosing between elective sweets and the necessary bitters for college entrance. The busy hum of contented creatures gave place to a staccato buzz. We received our first badge of increasing wisdom, beautiful bands of black and gold, indicating that we really were Juniors and were rapidly approaching the coveted state of seniority.

Then came the cruel winds of winter, driving us away from the honey baths of autumn flowers and fruits. The last season of the bees in the R. J. Reynolds (Continued on page 192)

PROPHECY OF JANUARY CLASS

Blanche Turner, Prophet

As a government inspector of bees, I was instructed to visit the Great Tulip Tree Region where many thousand colonies of bees gather. The journey was a long one and having nothing else to do while riding on the train without a companion, I began to ponder over my high school days where I had spent the happiest moments of my life. I began to think also of some of my old classmates who had been so dear and wondered what they were doing now after the elapse of so many years. This thought remained with me until I reached the end of my journey, and on arriving in this great bee region I was reminded of that passage from Virgil's Aeneid describing the Trojans "as exercise the bees in early summer throughout the flowering country-side (in the sunlight when they lead forth the young of the tribe now full-grown or store away the flowing honey and swell the comb with sweet nectar or receive the burden of those who are gathering or in a swarm drive out the drones, the lazy hard, from the hives, while the work glows and fragrant honey is revolent with thyme.") What a picture. I admired all this wondrous work of the Most High and then proceeded to look about. A great distance away I saw a man—the only person I had seen since my arrival. Immediately I started in that direction but before I knew it, I was facing one who seemed somewhat familiar—indeed he was familiar. It proved to be none other than Fred Stine, who had bestowed upon himself the title of the "The Keeper of the Bees." After indulging in a conversation with Mr. Stine, I found that he had spent quite a lonely life in this great region, but in order to overcome this loneliness and always having taken a great interest in his classmates he had kept up a continuous correspondence with each one and this is the information he had obtained and which he gave to me:

"Bill Cook and Pankie Smith," he said, "are dancing in one of the largest theatres in New York—their director being the handsome Fred Smith. In the chorus may be found Kate Bowles, Margaret Gwaltney, and Mary Katherine Blum.

"Katherine Spainhour is nursing in Washington in a Government Hospital and is co-worker with Dr. Ernest E. Powell, Jr. We might add that their friendship is somewhat extended after office hours.

"The great scientist, Norris Edwards, has just invented a form of permanent cosmetics which is already being applied by his first customers Evelyn McGee, Ellen Lawson, and Edith Elliot.

"You will remember Mr. Edwards for his great invention of a newly improved modernistic reducing machine—his willing victim for experiment being Miss Ida Rose Blackwood.

"In Hollywood may be found Nancy Fisher instructing a class on how to apply cosmetics correctly.

"Farrell Koontz and J. T. Waller have become honest lawyers; however, they seem to be making quite a great deal of money.

"Rev. William Wagoner is pastor of a church located at Whitetown, a town named for the famous lecturer and explorer, Joe Bill White.

"Dwelling in China is Mozelle Craver, who has made missionary work her profession in order to try to reform such as William Allen, Vincent Johnson, and Paul Jordan.

"Emory Crow is now running on the Work More Party ticket for Governor of N. C. His opponent on the Work Less Party ticket is Everette Kimball. Guy Davis, it seems, is financing both campaigns with the sincere hope that he might gain favor with both sides.

"Helen Smith has become a great sing-

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT, JANUARY

Katherine Spainhour, Testator

We, the January Class of 1936, being of sound mind and body, in full possession of extraordinary intelligence, and a much exaggerated opinion of ourselves, do hereby bequeath to those who follow the following articles:

Article I

Section I. Upon Mr. Joyner and members of the faculty, we do bestow our appreciation and admiration for their patience in dealing with us, and we do graciously forgive them for the many trials and tribulations which they have imposed upon us.

Section II. To poor Miss Heilig, our class sponsor, we're afraid that aspirin tablets and nerve tonic are the most beneficiary gifts we can leave in return for her untiring efforts in guiding us through these trying days of last exams, trying to collect class dues, and teaching us to wear a cap with a tassel.

Section III. To the Juniors we bequeath the pleasure of complaining about the so-called Senior Privileges, and we only ask that they be sure to complain as bitterly as we have.

Article II

Section I. Fred Smith wishes Ray Proctor to have his technique with girls, because Ray is so timid and shy.

Section II. Bill Cooke wills his place in the band to anyone who will have it —this is chiefly valuable as an excuse for being tardy to class on chapel mornings.

Section III. To Haywood Witherington, William Allen leaves his pleasant disposition. We feel it is our duty to warn you, Haywood, that you run the risk of inheriting William's laziness with it.

Section IV. Upon Richard Curley, Margaret Gwaltney most generously bestows her superb ability to make good grades.

We do hereby appoint our beloved principal, Mr. Claude Joyner as executor of this will, and it is our sincere desire that no disputes will arise from it.

In witness whereof, we, the mid-term class of 1936 do set our hand and seals, this 29th day of January, 1936.

POEM OF R. J. REYNOLDS HIGH JUNE CLASS

Lena Sue Shermer, Poet

INITIUM

For sometime we shared life together—
Our joys, disappointments, and fears.
We were contented; little caring
What would happen in future years.
We formed friendships, true and lasting,
Forgetting that time would never wait,
But instead would descend upon us,
Crying, "Seperation will be your fate!"
Time has now come to fulfill his vow,
And soon our ways will part,
This is not the ending but the beginning
So look up! launch out—embark!
Life is beckoning us onward
Are you ready and unafraid?
She wants only the brave and the daring;
Them only will she aid!

1911 25TH ANNIVERSARY EDITION 1936

HISTORY OF JUNE CLASS, 1936

Marguerite Pegram, Historian

Four years ago a group of wide-eyed youngsters drifted over to the R. J. Reynolds Naval Academy from Calvin H. Wiley with dreams of becoming full-fledged sailors on this modern sea of life. We had heard of the stiff regulations by which we would have to live, the long hours of study, dotted here and there with a few days of liberty, and in the summer the three months of shore leave when we were free from the stiff study routine, but we launched our feeble ship "Desire" on the waters of education and gave it a push.

The principal appointed to be in charge of us, our first Secretary of the Navy, Miss Margaret Bailey. By her excellent guidance we managed to get through that year when we were considered mere plebes. We were pestered and teased on all sides (some of us even paid the so-called radiator fee) and learned the stages by which we were taught our course in tying knots. The first year as freshmen we were tied in knots; as sophomores, or youngsters in our customary naval slang, we watched the knots being tied; as juniors, we learned to tie the knots; but when we became seniors, or first-class midshipmen, and inherited their many privileges and noble dignity, we tied the knots in a big way.

We elected as our regimental commander, or president, for both our first and second years, the versatile Mary Lou Nash, who has since gained an honorable discharge and moved out of our regiment. She wore all five stripes of honor with a guiding leadership and was assisted by Ruth Weavil, Bill Borthwick, and Mutt Dize as our other honorary striped officers, serving along with our second Secretary of the Navy, Miss Faye Martin.

We found that after hitting the deck for class every morning we were required to go through the daily ship's work of swabbing the deck of English, scraping the paint of Science, shining the bright work of Mathematics, coaling the ship of History, and polishing the rails of the Languages. Few minute intervals for trips to our sea bag or locker always served as a well-appreciated breathing spell. A real sigh of relief though was heard every day around twelve o'clock when the mess call for chow was sounded and we paced off toward the lunch room or the scuttle-butt (drinking fountain to you under-classmen.)

If we did not come up to the 2.5 mark of passing for our ship's work we were politely bilged out, or in milder language, flunked out and remained in our accustomed place. However, if we could reach the 4.0 mark of perfect, we were widely proclaimed and looked up to by the rest of our regiment and battalions.

As we boarded the third year of our education, we found ourselves under the command of that systematic siren Secretary of the Navy, Miss Irene Jones, and the characteristic class commander, Bill Brooks—the privileges were beginning to come our way and our waters were dotted with the gayety of the Junior-Senior and such affairs, but then, as always, they were followed by the clouded skies of exams drawing near.

As we embarked upon this, our senior year, and attained the rank of first class midshipmen, we bragged extensively of our many privileges, but where they are or what they are—we cannot tell you. Phil Walker, Miss Ruth Ford, and Miss Pauline Whitley have successfully steered us through the merry waters of the year and steered us clear of the exams, storms, and frequent showers in the eastern portions of tests.

Now we have gained the honor of being ready to embark on the two ships launched in our harbor, College and the Business World. We are thankful for the send-off by the President of our Union, our faithful principal, Mr. Claude Joyner.

PROPHECY OF CLASS OF JUNE, 1936

Barrett Russ, Prophet

I have formed an unethical, unimportant, and impossible theory. It is my contention that any person between the ages of sixteen and twenty-one who has passed through an exceptionally nerve-wracking and disappointing period of four to seven years, such as high school, will experience a complete change in his way of life within a period of twenty years. All theories must have some sign of proof. Through the efforts of an eminent and nationally unknown scientist, Arthur Morris, and myself, there has been produced a very complicated mass of nuts, bolts, springs, levers, and erasings from notebooks, which definitely has shown the state of this part of the world thirty years hence.

The United States is no more. The ruler of our unfair country is Queen Martha of Rawlings. The very sad and henpecked king is that demon of the knitting needle, King Cecil of Poe. The latest royal scandal reported by Editor Margaret Holbrook says that the king talked back when Queen Martha showed him where he had knitted two stitches instead of perling three. This scandalous incident was immediately taken up by that eavesdropping, slinking gossip of the press Sir Philip of Walker. Sir Philip spread and slung so much propaganda that the country was threatened with civil war. The men of the country rallied to the aid of their fair king under the leadership of that golden tongued 10-karat-plated orator, Sir Tom of Lumpkin. His Lieutenant was Sir Francis of Ray. Sir Francis says that men should have the right to knit as they wish. It gives mens' skirts that personal touch. To oppose this faction is the women's party led by Madame Paul Ader better known by her maiden name, Mademoiselle Lena Sue Shermer. She says that there should be no deviation from those rules set forth by the Union of Ladies' Aid Societies. Mademoiselle Shermer became famous as the leader in the anti-poetry movement. She was successful to the extent that Mother-Goose Rhymes must be printed in the prose version. The whole affair was settled, however, when the King Cecil of Poe, agreed to recant and remove the unethical stitches.

The biggest business in the country is the Royal Brewery Co. The principal stockholders are the former Misses Mary Iris Ferrell, Gladys Weatherman, Alice Broadway, Lorrain Lewis, and Wilma Garwood. Their husbands are Willie Algood, Bill Rawlings, Tom Cauble, J. W. McGee, and Forrest Conrad. These distinguished personages form the most popular sextette of the day. Harmony is most noticeable after a meeting of the official board of the Royal Brewery Co. when they meet to take care of the surplus stock.

Every respectable country must have a circus. This country is respectable. The man on the flying trapeze is Shore Neal. The component of his act is Lucia Johnson. The climax of the performance is the triple somerset by Miss Johnson into the arms of her waiting and anxious partner, catching by one hand. The show was nearly wrecked when they fell in love and Miss Johnson used both hands consistently. They had a fight, however, and were married, so the show came back to normal. The dazzling blonde equestrians in the big ring are Edna Earl Clinard, Frances Morgan, Hannah Smulin, and Marguerite Pegram. If one will look closely one can see that all four of them are making eyes at the peanut and popcorn man, Eugene Williams. He is not interested, however, and is calmly standing by a monkey's cage and showing the occupant how to use his face to the worst

LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT

We, the June graduating class of nineteen hundred and thirty-six, feeling the infirmities of life which are the natural accompaniments of declining years, and knowing that our moral life as a class will cease on June 5, 1936, do hereby will and bequeath all of our earthly talents, treasures, privileges, and prerogatives to wit:

Article I

Section I. To the faculty, we leave our deepest gratitude for their untiring efforts to improve our moral abilities, hoping they will have better success with the oncoming students.

Section II. To our beloved principal, Mr. Joyner, we wish to express our appreciation for his witty remarks and understanding nature about our many trying difficulties.

Section III. To the graduating classes of 1937, we will the honor of being dignified seniors during their final year at this institution.

Section IV. To Miss Ford and Miss Whitley, our energetic sponsors, we leave our many thanks for their interest and cooperation during the past year.

Section V. To the entire student body, we will our library periods under the supervision of Miss Flynn and Miss Nicholson, hoping that they will have as many privileges as we did, and that they will keep up our standard of good behavior.

Section VI. To all of our dear teachers, we bequeath our silent thoughts about things which did not pertain to the dictionary. Due to our conscientious natures, we could not express them during their class periods.

Article II

Section I. Bill Rawlings leaves Mebane Croom his ability to hold first place on the boys' tennis team during the year 1937, provided Mr. Barnette has no objections.

Section II. Dorothy Deal leaves Evelyn Lindsay her art and tact in holding the admiration of Phil Froelich.

Section III. "Red" Forrest leaves his kid brother, Steve, his ability in playing outstanding football next year, provided he can keep his mind off of the great financial house of Morgan and Co.

Section IV. To Virginia Clay and Dorcas Poindexter, Ella Jordan Ogburn and Martha Rawlings leave their power to capture and hold the attention of the opposite sex.

Section V. Paul Morris leaves his rhythmic jazz to that cute little junior known as Charlie Martin.

Section VI. To Margaret Fowler, Marguerite Pegram leaves her ability to talk constantly without saying anything.

Section VII. Marian Dee wills to Roberta Casey her deceiving grin.

Section VIII. To Bill Tudor, Shore Neal leaves his outstanding ability to run the school without the help of sensible people.

Section IX. Lena Sue Shermer wills to Elizabeth Tucker her artistic ability, imparting to her the secret that exams papers artistically designed increase their value fifty per cent.

Section X. To Phyllis Pinkston, Agnes Kelman bequeaths her good looks.

Section XI. Lucia Johnson wills to Jane Cash her ability to suppress her thoughts.

Section XII. Barrett Russ wills to Charlie Reece his beloved dictionary—but with one provision, it must be used for the same purpose that he used it.

We do hereby appoint Mr. Joby Hawn sole executor of this last will and testament. In witness whereof, we, the class of 1936, have set to this our will, our seal this fifth day of June in the year nineteen hundred and thirty-six.

AERONAUTICS CLUB

The spirit of aviation has reached the campus of R. J. R. in the organizing of the Aeronautics Club, with a membership of fifty-five boys.

Information in regard to the different types of planes in use, at the present has been studied, comparing the various new and old models. Various avenues of aviation are discussed at each meeting.

The second semester the club held an air-craft contest in which scale models and flying models were also built.

REYNOLDS HIGH SCHOOL PRINT SHOP

The mechanical changes and additions to equipment in the High School Print Shop this year were the most extensive since the shop was moved into the present building.

A small book bindery (pictured above) was installed across the hall from the main shop. The equipment includes paper cutter, standing presses, job backer, stabbing machine, and small tools making possible the complete rebinding of books. Several hundred books were rebound for the Carnegie Library and the various school libraries.

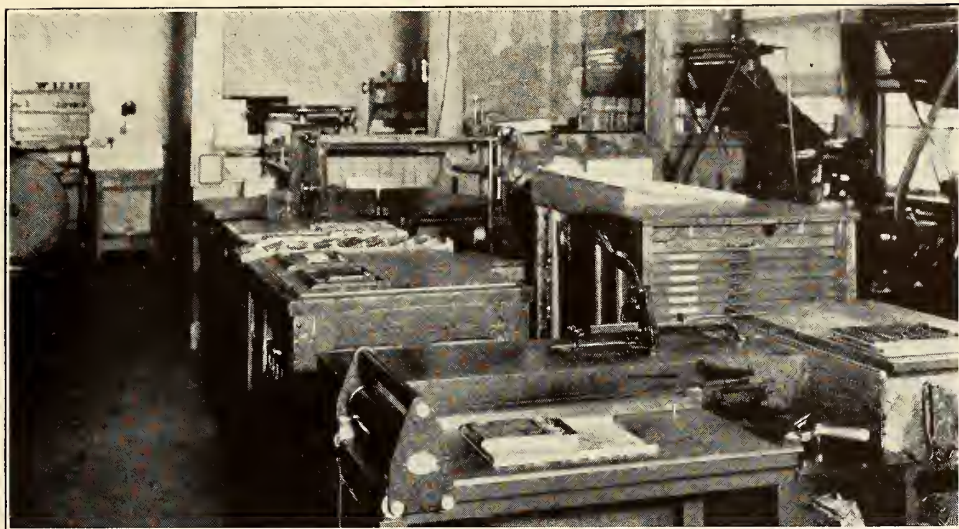

The Printers Club purchased a gold stamping machine which is extensively used in bookbinding as well as in other projects sponsored by the club.

REYNOLDS HIGH SCHOOL PRINT SHOP

A power paper cutter, proof press, electric Linotype pot, composing room cabinet and galley cabinet are the other major additions to the shop.

The shop, continuing its vocational program, produced the bulk of the printing for the schools and also for the various City departments.

This, the twenty-fifth year of the Black and Gold, is the fifth year it has been printed in the High School Print Shop. Fifteen hundred and fifty copies were printed. With the exception of the cylinder press makeready, all the work of printing the book was done by students and instructor. The work of three night school students—George Reece, Henry Pleasants, and Woodrow McCormick—was outstanding. Minor, Reynolds, Gibson, Bryant, and Tatum deserve special mention, but every student enrolled in printing had a part in the production of this book.

PRODUCING THE BLACK AND GOLD

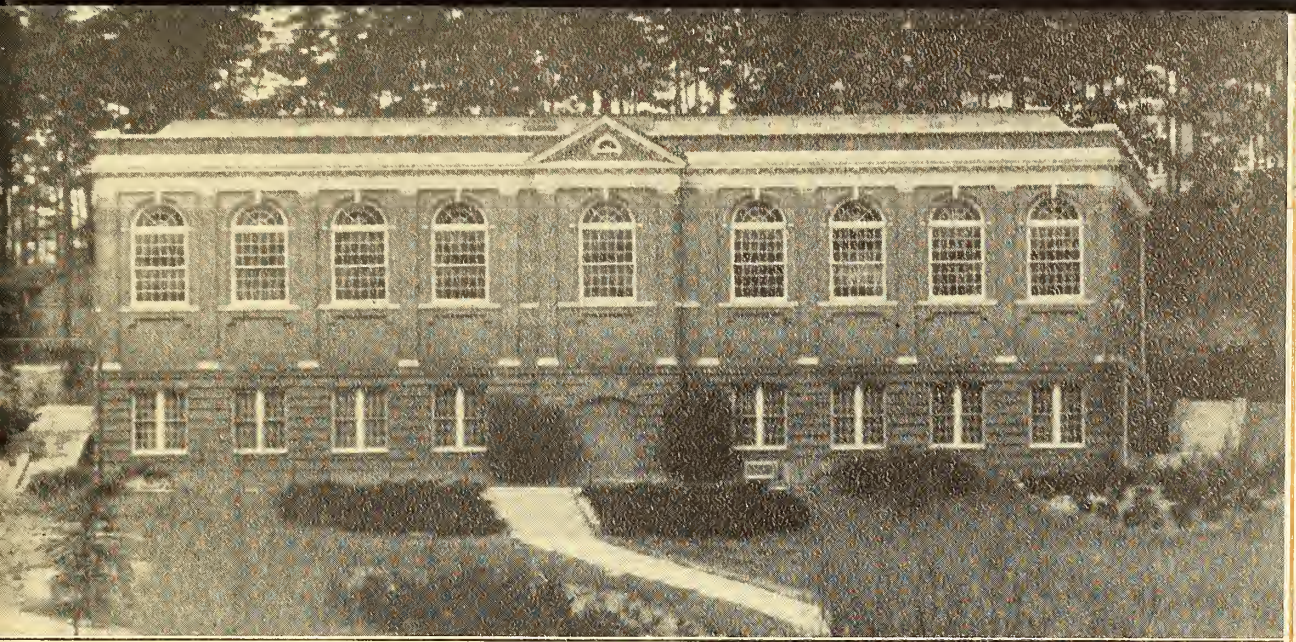

These pictures, taken in the shop, show some of the many operations in the production of the Black and Gold. Top views—setting the type on the Intertype; making up the page forms. Lower pictures—printing the job on the cylinder press; folding the printed sheets; trimming the annuals; putting the covers on the books.

Snatched From Aunt Minerva's Question
Box

(Black and Gold, 1913)

Question: Oh, wise Aunt Minerva, I've troubled my brain sick;
Please give me a reducing remedy quick.

Answer: That's easy enough, dear child,
listen here,
Just live on imagination for only a year.

Question: Dear lady, will you kindly aid
a discouraged man

To be popular with girls: will you tell me how I can?

Answer: Be not so forward and don't flirt so much.

Be very quiet and talk less, then soon their hearts you'll touch.

Mary had a little skirt,
Cut narrow down below,
And everywhere that Mary went,
She simply couldn't go.

Mr. Fidget: "What is that noise I hear down in the library?"

Mrs. Ditto: "Must be history repeating itself—Go to sleep."

Gleanings from a recent examination.

"Define fathom and form a sentence with it."

"A fathom is six feet. A fly has a fathom."

"Define species."

"Species is kind. A boy must be species to his mother."

"Define odorless."

"Odorless is without scent. A man who is odorless can't ride in the street car."

An old Irishman was relating to a group of attentive listeners how he had gotten shot through the breast in the war. When he had finished, one old man with just one leg spoke up and said:

"Say, Bill! If you got shot there, how come that there bullet to miss yer heart?"

"Aw! stupid! me heart was in my mouth then," er and may be heard over the N. B. C. Network, entertaining the public with songs of her own composition.

"Virginia Wall, Marjorie Canada and Elaine Erickson are touring the country with Cooke's Wonder Circus. If ever you have the opportunity it would be worth while to attend.

"Elmo Rothrock and Carthaway Shugart are seeking the thrill in life and have become 'daring young men on the flying trapeze.'

I was surprised to learn that Henry Kimball had refused to play football on the Duke team and had become an evangelist instead.

"Blanche Owen and Evelyn Sheets operate a candy shop in Greensboro, their best customer being Earl Latham an outstanding barber in that city."

"Mary Helen Darnell has achieved many honors in the literary walk of life. She has just finished a book which she intends to present to those students of R. J. R. who think they suffer from too much concentration on problems."

"Perry Ellis is proprietor of a newly established printing company in Baltimore. Working for Mr. Ellis are Hollyn Long and Bill Alspaugh."

"Otra Simpson has achieved the title of the Woman's Olympic fancy diving champion and America's hope in the Olympic games rests largely on Miles Carter, who is now in training in California for the coming event."

"Jesse Cook has at last found a place on the All-American football team, but at present is suffering from a broken collar bone. Dr. Wilson Mitchell, his physician, regards his care as being somewhat serious—a fact very much regretted by his many fans."

"At Duke University is Margaret Trivette, who is still endeavoring to secure her diploma. She is now under the patient guidance of Professor William Dalton."

"Aliene Wade, a saleswoman for J. T. Price and Company's Taste-Nice Tooth Paste, in a house-to-house canvass found Eula Belle Reid, Ina Mae Loggins, Margaret Banister and Mary Griffith as busy housewives. The efficient secretary for this company is Lucille McMillan, who has been successful in securing for the company Miss Helen Lineback and Mr. Billy Foy to pose for the advertisements."

"Back in our dear old home town may be found on the Board of Alderman a prominent citizen, Lester Sanders, and judge of the City Municipal Court, Judge Welborn Bolling, as principal of the Richard J. Reynolds High School, H. I. Grubbs, who proudly announces that now after much hard and strenuous work having been put forth, he, with the aid of two faculty members, Miss Betsy Reece and Mr. Horace Grubbs, has been able to put the long longed-for honor system across. His undying wish is that he will never have it to do again."

JANUARY HISTORY OF REYNOLDS HIVE

Hive, known as the senior year, had arrived. No more frolicking from one fountain of sweetness to another; no more dallying, with foolish wings poised on the edge of an enticing mass of fragrant foliage. We had been drinking deeply from the supplies found in such abundance around the Richard J. Reynolds Hive. We had stored away, as wise bees do, generous supplies of various kinds of nectar, honey and ambrosial concoctions, all tinged with various dashes of bitters. Now, in our final season, we found ourselves fortunate in having such a successful field of endeavor, with such competent leaders, and we settled ourselves perhaps, a bit too comfortably and complacently, for a pleasant winter. However, let it not be said that our life lacked effort or responsibility. While we had stored away food from the previous three years, our existence was fraught with such pitfalls as American Problems. Sometimes, we were almost overcome with pungent fumes from the chemistry and physics laboratories, and even the best members of our hive developed suspicious looking fatigue spots on their wings. English nectar revived some, but to others, the remedy was too strong. To the busy little bees, the hours were not so shining at all, and as for improving them, they were so busy merely meeting the problems of the hive that all further endeavors in the field seemed useless.

During our brief existence at the Richard J. Reynolds Hive, the following have distinguished themselves in various occupations: Katherine Spainhour, who is a member of the National Honor Society, Edith Elliot, who won a prize in the essay contest on "Crusades", and Perry Ellis, who through exceptional ability in printing, won a scholarship, these have been awarded scholastic honors; Jesse Cook was co-captain of the 1935 Football team, with Bill Alspaugh, Everett Kimball, Elmo Rothrock, and Henry Kimball ably helping him. We must by all means, not forget one of our bees whose buzz and constant cheerful hum brought him the honor of being a cheerleader. No song was quite as loud, no sting as potent, no activity before the swarms of excited fans lore entertaining as the happiest bee of our hive, Fred Stine.

The remainder of us here today greet you proudly and without too much boasting, say that we have acquitted ourselves creditably, honestly and profitably.

So far the predictions of the machine made by Mr. Arthur Morris and myself have been fairly good. GENTLEMEN, be seated . . . in comfort . . . in HANES! Our rear-guards, in figuring out your figure, have protected you at the seat. They make sure HANES cloth is cut to fit. Sit, stand, stoop, or bend—nothing chokes or chafes!

Take hold of a pair of HANES Shorts . . . poke your hands inside . . . then stretch them apart. Look at the room you've got in there for a couple of husky hips! And remember this about HANES colors: Washing or boiling won't budge them. Our money says they're fast!

Every pair of HANES Shorts should be mated to a HANES Shirt. Light and cool with a lively elastic-knit, they snap in snugly under your arms . . . lie calm and smooth across your chest . . . tuck so far below your belt that they can't roll into a rope at your waist. The illustration depicts a young boy in a suit, smiling broadly as he pulls a large, curved banner upwards. The banner features the word "ENERGY" written vertically in large, bold, sans-serif capital letters. At the top of the banner, the word "UP" is written in a large, stylized, cursive font. The boy is holding a bottle of Dr. Pepper in his right hand. Below him, the head of a woman with dark, wavy hair is visible, looking up at the boy. In the bottom right corner, there is a small illustration of a Dr. Pepper bottle next to a sign that reads "Dr. Pepper" in a cursive font, with "GOOD FOR LIFE!" underneath it. Below the sign, the text "AT 10- 5¢ 2 AND 4" is visible. In the top right corner of the illustration, there is a small logo for the NRA (National Rifle Association) with the text "NRA" and "WE SUPPORT THE NRA" below it.

We sit for hours with tousled hair,
Spectacles perched on nose,
And work and fret, and fret and work
While you are in repose.

We clench our fists and groan aloud
For ideas, something new;
And all of this, my friend, is done
For flattery from you!

If we can pull one laugh from you
And get one word of praise,
We'll be content; tho this has meant
Toiling many days.

The jokes are bad and mighty stale;
There's nothing really new;
Everything is old to them—
Even me and you!

There's nothing we can really do
To make it what it ain't—
Except, I guess, we order add
Another coat of paint.

WHAT OF THIS?

If you can face report day without quaking,
And brush "conscience" from your mind,

If, when you know the marks you are making
Are causing you to fall behind;

If when you see a cross mark standing
Just opposite the lesson you detest, O

If you can face your parents, handing
Them something that is not your best;

If through all these things you can blunder,
And never lose your steady nerve;

Then, my child, you are a wonder;
And surely a gold medal you deserve.

A Real Man's smoke

Some years ago a way was discovered to make pipe smoking even more of a pleasure than it had ever been before, through taking the "bite" out of smoking tobacco. This discovery, made right here in Winston-Salem, changed the smoking habits of millions of men and led to the present world-wide esteem for Prince Albert. You are missing the full delight of pipe smoking if you don't smoke "P. A." It is cooler... burns slower... tastes better. And Prince Albert does not bite the tongue.

TOM

A little bald head

A stiff white collar

And then we hear someone holler,

"Hi Tom!"

With his big long broom

He cleans the hall

And sweeps his way to the hearts of all.

TROUBLE

Way out on a country road
Away from any town
Could be seen a very dejected man,
A sittin' on the ground.
And the cause of all his sorrow,
The cause of all his wail
Was an innocent looking auto
That simply refused to go.
Nuts and bolts he'd tightened
And spark plugs had been tested
But still the thing refused to go;
It simply had him bested.

And here he sat upon the ground
His worried brain to rest,
He hated to leave the blame thing stalled
But—he had done his best.
At length he rose and stretched himself,
Then said with loud acclaim,
"If the darn thing don't start this time
I'll never run it again."
He started to tighten a final screw
When suddenly it was seen
That the cause of all his trouble was
He was out of gasoline!
